Johanna Mracna will serve as the new Assistant Superintendent of School Administration & Innovation/Interim Talent Development and Management for WBSD

West Bloomfield, MI - On Monday, June 13, the West Bloomfield School Districts' (WBSD) Board of Education approved the hiring of Johanna Mracna to serve as the Assistant Superintendent of School Administration & Innovation/Interim Talent Development and Management.

This position was established to develop, support, supervise, coach, and evaluate the principals. She will support school and District school improvement planning, administer provisions of labor agreements, manage the employment life-cycle, manage the employee and student handbooks, oversee benefits, unemployment compensation, worker's compensation, and complete grant writing. Mracna will also serve as the interim for Talent Development and Management.

Mracna is the current Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction for Ferndale Public Schools. Prior to that, Mracna served as the High School Principal for University High School in Ferndale. She has also served as an instructional lead teacher and high school teacher.

Mracna earned her Bachelor of Science from the University of Michigan with a focus on biology, chemistry, and classical archaeology. She earned her Masters in Teaching with a concentration in Educational Leadership from Marygrove College, and her Education Specialist with a concentration in Curriculum & Instruction from Wayne State University.

"I am excited to join the WBSD team," stated Johanna Mracna. "I know how special this community is and I look forward to learning and growing with the Lakers!"

“Johanna Mracna has a passion for education and advocates for all students while working tirelessly to ensure that they have equitable opportunities to succeed in every way,” stated Dr. Dania Bazzi, WBSD’s new Superintendent.

“Students are at the forefront of every decision and she always strives to identify what is best for them. Johanna has a natural ability to support not only her team but all staff by providing professional growth in everyday moments. She has incredible initiative, timely follow-through, and strong leadership skills. Johanna will be a wonderful addition to the West Bloomfield community,” added Bazzi.
